

Madison County

Madison County was chartered in December 1792 well after the earliest colonists had settled the area. It was named for the Madison family that produced one of our nation's early presidents, James Madison. Headquarters to a national retail catalog and home to award-winning wineries, Virginia's first historic farm brewery, various agribusinesses, and forest and wood product companies, Madison County is the perfect setting for a balance between quality of life and an excellent business location.

Innovative Employers

Madison County offers businesses the benefit of close proximity to the Northern Virginia population centers while providing a high quality of life and the natural beauty of the Blue Ridge Mountains to the west. These are some of the companies that are proud to call Madison County home:

- Bald Top Brewing Company
Virginia's first historic farm brewery
- Clore Furniture
manufacturer of hardwood furniture
- Early Mountain Vineyards
